Vote types

Information about the different vote types is available in The Electoral Process.

Adjusted votes

For the 1993 election an adjustment column is shown in this table. This was the last election where ballot papers were amalgamated for the whole division for rechecking and counting prior to the distribution of preferences. In some cases, this fresh scrutiny showed that an earlier count was in error. As it was not possible to identify where the error was made, the adjustment column accounts for these discrepancies between the earlier count and the final divisional total.

For the 1998 and 1996 elections, this amalgamation did not occur and, therefore, no adjustment column is required in this table.

Supplementary elections

For the 1998 election, the figures shown for the Division of Newcastle (NSW) are from the supplementary election held on 21 November 1998.

For the 1993 election, the figures shown for the Division of Dickson (QLD) are from the supplementary election held on 17 April 1993.

TABLE HELP: Votes counted by vote type: by division

1 The number of eligible voters in each division, state, territory and the nation as at polling day.

2 The number of votes counted of each vote type for each division, state, territory and the nation.

3 For the 1993 election only – the number of adjusted votes (see Table Notes for more information).

4 The total number of votes (all vote types) counted in each division, state, territory and the nation.

5 The percentage turnout for a division, state, territory or the nation – calculated by dividing the total votes cast by the enrolment for that division, state, territory or the nation.

TABLE NOTES: First preference votes: by party by state

Those parties not shown separately are included with independent candidates in the line 'Other'.

Exhausted votes

These are ballot papers which show no further valid preference for any candidate and must, therefore, be set aside from the count. Exhausted ballot papers form part of the tables for the 1996 and 1993 elections.

In 1998, the Commonwealth Electoral Act 1918 was amended to require that, for the House of Representatives, a ballot paper must have every box numbered, and the numbers must be consecutive starting from '1'. This has meant that in the 1998 election there are no exhausted ballot papers in the House of Representatives counts.

Two party preferred (TPP) calculation

The two party preferred (TPP) result is calculated, by convention, between the ALP and the Coalition (LP/NP/CLP). This differs from the two candidate preferred (TCP) result which shows the number of votes for the final two candidates from the distribution of preferences. In those divisions where the ALP and Coalition were not the final two candidates, a further scrutiny for information is conducted to obtain a notional ALP and Coalition TPP result.

TABLE NOTES (cont.): First preference votes: by party by state

A notional distribution of preferences to establish the TPP result was conducted for the following divisions:

1993 North Sydney (NSW) and Wills (VIC)

1996 Calare (NSW), Murray (VIC), Curtin (WA), Kalgoorlie (WA) and Moore (WA)

1998 Calare (NSW), Blair (QLD) and Mayo (SA).

Supplementary elections

For the 1998 election the figures shown for the Division of Newcastle (NSW) are from the supplementary election held on 21 November 1998. However, a TPP result could not be calculated as there was no Coalition party candidate standing for election. Therefore Newcastle is not included in the TPP part of these tables.

For the 1993 election the figures shown for the Division of Dickson (QLD) are those from the supplementary election held on 17 April 1993.

1996 election results – Division of Oxley (QLD) and Lindsay (NSW)

Division of Oxley – Votes for Pauline Hanson (Division of Oxley – QLD), who was originally endorsed by the Liberal Party, but disendorsed by the party after nominations had closed but prior to polling day, have been included in these tables as Liberal Party votes. All TPP statistics include Ms Hanson's votes as Liberal Party votes.

Division of Lindsay – On 11 September 1996 the Court of Disputed Returns ruled that the election in the Division of Lindsay was void. A by-election was held on 19 October 1996 which was won by the Liberal Party candidate Jackie Kelly. The nomination numbers shown in this table are those from the election on 2 March 1996.

3 The swing column shows a comparison between the result obtained in the current event with that obtained in the previous event. In this example, the swing of -6.17% shown for the ALP means a 6.17% swing away from the ALP compared to the previous event.

4 The two party preferred (TPP) part of the table shows:

- the TPP votes obtained by each party
- the percentage of the TPP each party obtained
- the swing in TPP compared to the last event
- for the 1996 and 1993 elections – the number of exhausted votes (see Table Notes for further information on exhausted votes).

TABLE NOTES: First preference votes and TCP: by candidate by division

Exhausted votes

These are ballot papers which show no further valid preference for any candidate and must, therefore, be set aside from the count. Exhausted ballot papers form part of the tables for the 1996 and 1993 elections.

In 1998, the Commonwealth Electoral Act 1918 was amended to require that, for the House of Representatives, a ballot paper must have every box numbered, and the numbers must be consecutive starting from '1'. This has meant that in the 1998 election there are no exhausted ballot papers in the House of Representatives counts.

TABLE NOTES (cont.): First preference votes and TCP: by candidate by division

Supplementary elections

For the 1998 election the figures shown for the Division of Newcastle (NSW) are from the supplementary election held on 21 November 1998.

For the 1993 election the figures shown for the Division of Dickson (QLD) are those from the supplementary election held on 17 April 1993.

1996 election – Division of Lindsay

On 11 September 1996 the Court of Disputed Returns ruled that the election in the Division of Lindsay was void. A by-election was held on 19 October 1996 which was won by the Liberal Party candidate Jackie Kelly. The results published in this table are those from the election on 2 March 1996.

TABLE HELP: First preference votes and TCP: by candidate by division

The symbol # appears against an elected candidate's name.

- 1 The name of the division and the number of eligible electors for the division.
- 2 The five dots which appear at the end of the list of candidates indicate that a candidate was endorsed by a party for that division at the previous election, but that no candidate was endorsed by that party for the current election; or an independent candidate who stood in the previous election but not in the current election. The party endorsing the candidate in the previous election is shown in the party column. The candidate's votes from the previous election are taken into account as a negative figure in the swing column.

Adjusted votes

For the 1993 election, an adjustment column is shown in this table. This was the last election where ballot papers for candidates were amalgamated for the whole division for rechecking and counting prior to the distribution of preferences. In some cases, this fresh scrutiny showed that an earlier count was in error. As it was not possible to identify where the error was made, the adjustment column accounts for these discrepancies between the earlier count and the final divisional total.

For the 1998 and 1996 elections this amalgamation did not occur and, therefore, no adjustment column is required in this table.

Two candidate preferred (TCP) count – 1993 election

No TCP data can be shown for the 1993 election in this table. At this election, the TCP count was only conducted at polling places on election night as an indication of what the final result may be in that division. TCP counts were not conducted for any of the declaration vote types, nor was the indicative count from election night checked in the divisional office in the post-election period.

TABLE NOTES: First preference votes and TCP: by candidate by polling place

Exhausted votes

These are ballot papers which show no further valid preference for any candidate and must, therefore, be set aside from the count. Exhausted ballot papers form part of the tables for the 1996 and 1993 elections.

In 1998, the Commonwealth Electoral Act 1918 was amended to require that, for the House of Representatives, a ballot paper must have every box numbered, and the numbers must be consecutive starting from '1'. This has meant that in the 1998 election there are no exhausted ballot papers in the House of Representatives counts.

Adjusted votes

For the 1993 election, an adjustment row is shown in this table. This was the last election where ballot papers for candidates were amalgamated for the whole division for rechecking and counting prior to the distribution of preferences. In some cases, this fresh scrutiny showed that an earlier count was in error. As it was not possible to identify where the error was made, the adjustment column accounts for these discrepancies between the earlier count and the final divisional total.

For the 1998 and 1996 elections this amalgamation did not occur and, therefore, no adjustment column is required in this table.

Two candidate preferred (TCP) count –1993

No TCP data can be shown for the 1993 election in this table. At this election, the TCP count was only conducted at polling places on election night as an indication of what the final result may be in that division. TCP counts were not conducted for any of the declaration vote types, nor was the indicative count from election night checked in the divisional office in the post-election period.

Supplementary elections

For the 1998 election the figures shown for the Division of Newcastle (NSW) are from the supplementary election held on 21 November 1998.

For the 1993 election the figures shown for the Division of Dickson (QLD) are those from the supplementary election held on 17 April 1993.

1996 election – Division of Lindsay

On 11 September 1996 the Court of Disputed Returns ruled that the election in the Division of Lindsay was void. A by-election was held on 19 October 1996 which was won by the Liberal Party candidate Jackie Kelly. The results published in this table are those from the election on 2 March 1996.

Two party preferred (TPP) calculation

The TPP result is calculated, by convention, between the ALP and the Coalition (LP/NP/CLP). This differs from the two candidate preferred (TCP) result which shows the number of votes for the final two candidates from the distribution of preferences. In those divisions where the ALP and Coalition were not the final two candidates, a further scrutiny for information is conducted to obtain a notional ALP and Coalition TPP result.

A notional distribution of preferences to establish the TPP result was conducted for the following divisions:

1993 North Sydney (NSW) and Wills (VIC)

1996 Calare (NSW), Murray (VIC), Curtin (WA), Kalgoorlie (WA), and Moore (WA)

1998 Calare (NSW), Blair (QLD) and Mayo (SA).

For the 1998 election, the figures shown for the Division of Newcastle (NSW) are from the supplementary election held on 21 November 1998. However, a TPP result could not be calculated as there was no Coalition party candidate standing for election. Therefore Newcastle is not included in the TPP part of the these tables

For the 1993 election, the figures shown for the Division of Dickson (QLD) are from the supplementary election held on 17 April 1993.

1996 election results – Division of Oxley (QLD)

Votes for Pauline Hanson, who was originally endorsed by the Liberal Party, but disendorsed by the party after nominations had closed but prior to polling day, have been included in these tables as Liberal Party votes. The TPP statistics include Ms Hanson's votes as Liberal Party figures.

TABLE NOTES: Distribution of preferences: by division

Exhausted votes

These are ballot papers which show no further valid preference for any candidate and must, therefore, be set aside from the count. Exhausted ballot papers form part of the tables for the 1996 and 1993 elections.

In 1998, the Commonwealth Electoral Act 1918 was amended to require that, for the House of Representatives, a ballot paper must have every box numbered, and the numbers must be consecutive starting from '1'. This has meant that in the 1998 election there are no exhausted ballot papers in the House of Representatives counts.

TABLE NOTES: Two candidate preferred preference flow result: by polling place

Exhausted votes

These are ballot papers which show no further valid preference for any candidate and must, therefore, be set aside from the count. Exhausted ballot papers form part of the tables for the 1996 and 1993 elections.

In 1998, the Commonwealth Electoral Act 1918 was amended to require that, for the House of Representatives, a ballot paper must have every box numbered, and the numbers must be consecutive starting from '1'. This has meant that in the 1998 election there are no exhausted ballot papers in the House of Representatives counts.

Two candidate preferred (TCP) count – 1993

This table is not available for the 1993 election because the TCP count was only conducted at polling places on election night to provide an indication of what the final result may be in that division. TCP counts were not conducted for any of the declaration vote types, nor was the indicative count from election night checked in the divisional office in the post-election period.

1998 election results – Newcastle supplementary election

The figures shown for the Division of Newcastle (NSW) are from the supplementary election held on 21 November 1998.

1996 election results – Division of Lindsay (NSW)

On 11 September 1996 the Court of Disputed Returns ruled that the election in the Division of Lindsay was void. A by-election was held on 19 October 1996 which was won by the Liberal Party candidate Jackie Kelly. The results published in this table are from the election on 2 March 1996.
